

About the Developer

Hi there, this is Shea Brewer from WellBee. I am a father to 3 lovely children (most of the time) with a dog, some hamsters and a parrot to boot. Looking after such a large family, whilst wholly rewarding, can also be a very challenging task, especially when health comes into the equation.

This is where WellBee came into Bee-ing. WellBee is a passion project of mine that was born of the need to manage the health and wellness of my whole family in the unfortunate but unavoidable instances that sickness and injury take a firm hold.

As a father to young children I also believe that privacy is of the utmost importance and this belief forms the very foundations of WellBee. The content that you create in this app is, or may contain, highly sensitive and personal information about you and your loved ones. As such, this information is for your eyes only.

The goal with WellBee is simple: keep important health information structured, accessible, and easy to understand whenever you need it, with privacy at the forefront.
